

It is unconscionable that Sinclair Broadcasting has decided to use its access to public airwaves to air their own one-sided views on the Presidential contest.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. Contrast its actions (instructing its local stations to air the anti-John Kerry film "Stolen Honor" without offering equal time for a pro-Kerry film) to the actions of the broadcast networks in broadcasting--commercial-free--a series of substantive, informative and wide-ranging Presidential debates.

I believe strongly that Sinclair's actions demonstrate that we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. I would like the FCC to reconsider Sinclair's broadcast licenses. Thank you.
